

ABSTRACT

A method, system and program product for monitoring a web-based service, comprising the steps of: receiving a service reference to a status of a job in a service; adding the service reference to a bookmark list; and 5 removing automatically the service reference from the bookmark list when the job is completed by the service.